Motivation for candidacy

Dear FIS Family,

My name is Nevena Ignjatović, a four-time Olympian and current President of the Ski Association of Serbia. It is my honor to present my candidacy for the FIS Council.

Throughout my career as an athlete and sports leader, I have gained extensive experience in winter sports at both the highest competitive level and within organizational leadership. Competing in four Olympic Games has provided me with a deep understanding of athletes' needs, the evolution of our sport, and the importance of strong, forward-thinking governance.

In my current role as President of the Ski Association of Serbia, I have been committed to developing skiing at all levels, strengthening international cooperation, and promoting innovation within the sport. I believe that winter sports are entering a new era—one that requires fresh ideas, renewed energy, and a collaborative approach to ensure sustainable growth and global accessibility.

My goal, if elected, is to contribute actively to the continued development of FIS by bringing a modern perspective, practical experience, and a strong passion for the sport. I am particularly motivated to support initiatives that enhance athlete development, improve event quality and expand the reach of winter sports to new regions and generations.

I would be truly honored to serve and to work together with you in shaping the future of our sport.

Yours sincerely,
Nevena Ignjatović
