

- The Tour de Ski has been held annually since the 2006/07 season. It started with five stages in the first two seasons, was reduced to four stages until the 2018/19 season and then to three stages until the 2023/24 season. Now it is held in just two stages to reduce the travel time. Just like in the last season, the 2025/26 Tour de Ski will take place at the two Italian venues of Toblach and Val di Fiemme.
- Dario Cologna (SUI) and Johannes Hoesflot Klaebo (NOR) have won four Tour de Ski each, so Klaebo could become the first athlete, man or woman, to win Tour five times. No other active Men's skier has won it more than once.
- Johannes Hoesflot Klaebo (NOR) also holds the record of Tour de Ski stage wins, having won 21 so far. Petter Northug (NOR) is second on 13 wins, and Sergey Ustiugov (RUS) third with nine. Harald Oestberg Amundsen (NOR) is the active Cross-Country skier with the second most stage wins, on four.
- Norwegian athletes have won four consecutive Men's Tour de Ski titles, which is the longest streak of wins for the same country in the Men's Tour de Ski history. Norwegian athletes have won the Men's Tour de Ski eight times with four different athletes, all wins having come in the last 12 seasons, after Norway did not win any of the first seven editions of the Tour.
- Norway started the season winning all three Men's events of the first and second World Cup stages in Ruka and Trondheim. The streak was broken in Davos, where Lucas Chanavat (FRA) won the Sprint. Norwegian skiers has won seven out of the eight Men's World Cup races held so far, and in all seven victories, the runner-up was also Norwegian.
- Johannes Hoesflot Klaebo (NOR) won his 100th individual World Cup victory in his hometown of Trondheim earlier this season. Klaebo became the first Men's athlete to reach this landmark, and second overall, joining retired compatriot Marit Bjoergen (NOR), who claimed 114 World Cup wins before retiring in 2018.
- Johannes Hoesflot Klaebo (NOR) has won the Overall World Cup title five times, between 2017/18 and 2024/25. If he wins the 2025/26 Overall Crystal Globe, he will equal his countryman Bjoern Daehlie (NOR), who holds the record of six Overall titles, won between 1991/92 and 1998/99. Klaebo is tied with Gunde Svan (SWE) on five titles. No other active Men's Cross-Country skier has more than two Crystal Globes.
- Johannes Hoesflot Klaebo (NOR) has held the record for most individual World Cup wins in a single season since 2022/23, when he topped the podium 19 times. Klaebo's 16 World Cup victories in the 2023/24 season is the second-highest number of World Cup wins in a single season. He has three individual wins this season so far.
- Johannes Hoesflot Klaebo (NOR) also holds the record for most individual podiums in a single season since 2022/23, when he made it to the podium in 23 individual World Cup podiums. He currently has four individual podiums this season so far.

- Lucas Chanavat (FRA) won the Sprint Freestyle in Davos, with Federico Pellegrino (ITA) in second place and Oskar Opstad Vike (NOR) third. This was the fifth individual World Cup win for Chanavat, who won his last World Cup race in the same track in Davos during the 2023/24 Tour de Ski.
- Einar Hedegart (NOR) won the 10km Interval Start Freestyle in Davos, with Harald Oestberg Amundsen (NOR) in second place and Mattis Stenshagen (NOR) third, producing another clean podium sweep for Norway – the fourth one in eight races this season. It was the second World Cup win for Hedegart and the second consecutive one in this event.
- The race in Davos was just the fifth World Cup start for Einar Hedegart (NOR), just a few weeks after announcing he was quitting biathlon to dedicate himself to Cross-Country skiing full-time. He has a record of two wins and four podiums in five World Cup starts.
