

PREVIEW WOMEN'S INDIVIDUAL LARGE HILL OSLO – Saturday 9 and Sunday 10 Mar 2024

Eva Pinkelnig

- Eva Pinkelnig won two of the previous three individual World Cup events, in Hinzenbach on 24 and 25 February. She finished third in Lahti on 1 March.
- Among Austrian women, only Daniela Iraschko-Stolz (16) and Sara Marita Kramer (15) have won as many individual World Cup events as Pinkelnig (14).
- No woman has won as many individual World Cup events in 2024 as Pinkelnig (5). Nika Prevc follows on four victories.
- Pinkelnig (5) is one short of equalling her total number of individual World Cup victories of last season (6, personal best), when she won the overall World Cup.
- Pinkelnig could become the first Austrian woman to win the Raw Air competition. She finished third in 2020. In other multi-day-competitions, Pinkelnig won the Silvester Tournament in 2022 and she placed second in this season's Two-Nights-Tour.

Nika Prevc

- Eighteen-year-old Nika Prevc (6 wins in 2023/24) can become the youngest woman to win at least seven individual World Cup events in a season since Sara Takanashi's 15 wins at age 17 in 2013/14.
- Only Sara Takanashi (3) won as many women's individual World Cup events on the large hill before turning 19 as Prevc (2). Prevc won the large hill event in Engelberg (16 December) and Garmisch-Partenkirchen (30 December) this World Cup season. Prevc celebrates her 19th birthday on 15 March.
- In the Prevc family, Nika is level with her brother Domen Prevc on six individual World Cup career wins. Their brother Peter Prevc is still sitting at the head of the family dinner table on 23 individual World Cup wins.
- Nika Prevc can become the second Slovenian woman to claim an individual World Cup win in Oslo, after Ema Klinec won the large hill event on 12 March 2023.
- Slovenian women have won the last two Raw Air competitions: Nika Križnar in 2022 and Klinec in 2023.

Other contenders

- Only Maren Lundby (10) has claimed more individual women's World Cup wins on large hills than Sara Marita Kramer (9) and Sara Takanashi (9).
- Takanashi has won four individual World Cup events in Oslo, more than any other female ski jumper. Oslo is also the venue where she claimed her most recent individual World Cup win, on 6 March 2022.
- This season, the 10 women's individual World Cup large hill events had seven different winners: Joséphine Pagnier (2), Nika Prevc (2), Eva

- Pinkelnig (2), Yuki Ito, Jacqueline Seifriedsberger, Silje Opseth and Nika Križnar.
- Nika Križnar won the large hill event in Lahti last week and she can become the fourth woman in this World Cup season to win back-to-back large hill events, after Pagnier, Prevc and Pinkelnig. Prior to this season, just five women managed to win successive large hill World Cup events.
 - Alexandria Loutitt (5) and Eirin Maria Kvandal (5) are the two women to have recorded the most individual World Cup podiums this season without winning once.
 - Jacqueline Seifriedsberger claimed four podiums in her last five World Cup events (1-8-2-3-2).
 - Norwegian women have claimed two individual World Cup victories in Oslo: Maren Lundby in March 2018 and Silje Opseth in March 2022. Opseth is the only Norwegian woman who claimed a World Cup win this season (in Willingen on 4 February).
